

Sean Marconi

Hurdle6 Capital LLC

For this week's Top 50 Microcap Investor, we present Sean Marconi, Founder of Hurdle6 Capital LLC. Hurdle6 Capital is a private partnership focused on finding and investing in areas within their circle of competence. In 2008, Sean obtained a bachelor's degree from Oakland University while studying finance and working full-time in order to pay all tuition and fees before launching his career.

Sean, a Microcap Club analyst, contributed seven investment opportunities on the club's forum from 2011 through 2015. The investments profiled have accumulated an average return of 142.5% when equally weighted. While Hurdle6's performance has not been shared publicly since its founding in 2019, invaluable insights have been released regarding their process and philosophy. The firm takes a "hands on approach" by conducting on-site due diligence and face to face conversations with management. Sean focuses on undervalued businesses with durable competitive advantages while possessing a long-term orientation. By focusing on inefficiencies in the microcap space, along with visiting the investment's physical locations, Sean believes he can provide his clients a competitive edge. Additionally, multi-year capital commitments have enabled the firm to deploy patient capital across Canadian and U.S. based companies while factoring in, but not forcing decisions based upon illiquidity and volatility. You can follow Sean and his investment journey on the Microcap Club's website or on twitter @SeanMarconi.

This article reflects only public information and we did not speak with Sean before publishing.